

Execulink Telecom Launches Comprehensive New Residential Home Phone Packages to Meet Changing Customer Needs

(Woodstock, ON) August 14, 2024 – Execulink Telecom, a leading provider of telecommunications services in Southern Ontario, is thrilled to announce the launch of its latest suite of Residential Home Phone packages. These new offerings are designed to provide greater flexibility, affordability, and convenience for their valued customers.

Execulink's new Home Phone packages include a Line Forwarding plan, priced at $4.95 per month, which features a versatile 2-line forwarding package ensuring that important calls are never missed by forwarding them to any two numbers of choice. A Voicemail Forwarding Plan, also priced at $4.95 per month, simplifies communication by automatically directing calls to voicemail, making message management effortless. For those seeking essential home phone services, the Home Phone Lite package at $9.95 per month offers basic voice line capabilities along with call display, allowing users to see who is calling and manage their conversations effectively. Finally, their flagship Home Phone Premium package, priced at $30.85 per month, provides the ultimate home phone experience with basic voice line services and seven additional calling features, offering comprehensive coverage for all communication needs.

"We are excited to bring these new Home Phone packages to our residential customers," said Execulink's CEO, Ian Stevens. "We understand that everyone requires something different, whether it's for personal use, reliability, or work benefits. These plans are tailored to meet the diverse needs of our customers, providing them with the flexibility and features they require at a price point that suits their budget. Our goal is to ensure that there are options for everyone, enhancing their communication experience in a way that fits their individual needs."

Customers can easily purchase these products online for their convenience. Visit the execulink.ca/residential/phone for more details and to sign up for the plan that best fits their needs.

About Execulink Telecom
